Carlisle SynTec, a leading manufacturer of single-ply roofing materials, recently named Collier Roofing Company Inc. as a recipient of its 2011 Perfection Award.

The Perfection Award, determined by historical installation quality metrics, recognizes only Carlisle's most dedicated and quality-minded authorized contractors.

"Carlisle is pleased to recognize Collier Roofing Company Inc.'s commitment to quality with this Perfection Award," said Nick Shears, Carlisle's vice president of sales and marketing, in a news release. "We greatly value those Carlisle contractors who pursue not only excellence, but perfection, on each and every job."

The Perfection Award is a distinction that recognizes only the top five percent of Carlisle's contractors annually. Honorees of the award are determined on the basis of a series of quality-oriented metrics, including installation quality and warranty claim performance.

Carlisle SynTec also recently announced its appointees to the inaugural Perfection Council, the highest distinction in its Perfect 10 contractor quality recognition program.

Only the top 15 contractors in North America, determined by historical installation quality metrics, were chosen to sit on the council. Collier Roofing Company Inc. was among the contractors selected for this award.

Perfection Council members will be welcomed to participate in focus group-style business meetings and will serve on an advisory board throughout the year to determine how Carlisle can best support its contractor network.

Jerry and Yvonne Collier of Joelton, and their son, Eric Collier of Ashland City, own and operate the business.
